Items of Interest

Alberta is on the eve of one of the greatest periods of oil and gas development in its history, officials of the provincial government lands and mines branch stated today, no less than 318 applications for oil leases having been filed at the Calgary and Lethbridge branch offices since January, covering thousands of acres of potential oil lands. These applications, officials said, are over and above the 150,000 acres of government owned land in the province which has been thrown open for development under the new permit regulations made effective some months ago.

Expenditure of $1,000,000 to erect a full-equipped packing plant in North Edmonton and give permanent employment to between 250 and 300 persons as soon as the plant is completed has been ordered by Canada Packers, Limited, according to a joint announcement issued today by the city commissioners and Percy W. Abbot, K.C., representative of the company. The contract for the job has been awarded to the Bird Construction Company, Moose Jaw, and work will get under way as soon as weather and ground conditions permit, presumably some time next month. The plant will be interesting in foreign trade, rather than domestic business, and ultimately, when in full operation, 400 persons will be employed, it was stated.

Alberta is breaking into Tin Pan Alley, "Louise on Lake Louise," written by Al Bryan and Larry Stock after a holiday at the beautiful lake in the Rockies is proving a popular song hit. Abe Olman, manager of Leo's Co. claims that it will be one of the most popular 1936 fox trots, and is being featured by this company as the leading 1936 song. It is also going big over the radio.

Frank S. Grisdale, of Olds, former minister of agriculture in the Reid and Brownlee governments, and ex-principal of the Olds School of Agriculture, may be approached by prominent Liberals as to whether he would accept the leadership of that party, it was learned Monday. Owing to the appointment of Mr. Justice Howson to the trial division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, the leadership of the Liberal party in this province has become vacant. It is expected that a choice will be made at a convention to be held in the spring or summer in either Edmonton or Calgary.

What's Wrong With Radio?

What is wrong with the Canadian Radio Commission and its programs? There is abundant evidence that the governing body of radio broadcasting in this country is not filling the bill to the taste of Western Canadian radio fans. Discontent is heard on all hands when the subject is under discussion among users of radio in the three prairie provinces and press commentators, even those inclined to be more merciful to the authorities, are constantly poking the commission.

Dissatisfaction is not so rare in Eastern Canada, because, it is said, the residents of that half of the Dominion, who do not like C.R.C. commission programs coming over the air at the moment, can, with an easy twist of the wrist, turn to something more to their taste and bring in a wide selection from the best Eastern stations on the other side of the international boundary without interference from local stations.

In Western Canada radio fans are largely precluded from this consolation, due to the fact that the distribution of wave lengths in the west is such as to inevitably shut out reception from the more popular accessible stations on the American side of the line and particularly at those hours when radio is in most constant use, except for those few who are able to afford the most up-to-date models.

Unfortunately due to stringency resulting from a combined agricultural depression and world wide economic disaster of the past few years the great majority of citizens of the prairie provinces have been, and still are, forced to take their wireless entertainment from more or less antiquated receiving sets. Money is still too scarce to enable them to purchase the most modern sets, equipped with the latest refinements and they are unable, for the present at least, to tune in to stations on the other side of the line in close wave length to the local stations.

This is undoubtedly one of the causes of the prevailing dissatisfaction and is one which should be recognized and, if possible, rectified by the commission.

Another oft-heard complaint is that in the choice of its chain programs the Commission devotes too much time to highly classical music and too little to the type of entertainment which the greater majority of Western Canadians would sooner hear. In other words, it is stated that the programs are not well balanced. This great majority would prefer to hear a little more of the "jolly rollicking barn dance" type of music and more entertainment of a humorous variety than the Commission appears able or willing to provide, but at the same time they want this entertainment furnished by what may be termed "top notchers" and not by mediocre amateurs.

It is true, perhaps, that the Commission has dimly perceived its shortcomings in this respect and has made some effort more recently to cater to popular demand but in doing so has relied to a considerable extent on local talent of not very high rating, possibly due to a desire to placate local jealousies. In this connection it might be suggested that the commission might very well make more use of local commercial stations as an elimination school and select only those best qualified to appear on their chain programs with some provision for adequate remuneration.

It is generally conceded, too, that one of the factors responsible for the commission's seeming inability to cater to western requirements is the fact that too much of the revenue derived from radio license fees finds its way into the Dominion government's treasury and too little of it is allotted to the commission for its work. If the commission were allowed a greater proportion of this income it is possible that they might be able to find or develop sufficient talent to eliminate some of the criticisms to which it is exposed.

Then, too, the commission has been subjected to criticism from time to time for lack of initiative. A case in point is its decision not to make a Blattnophone recording of the funeral services of the late King George for reproduction at an hour when the great majority of Western radio listeners could participate.

It is admitted that the problem is one which bristles with difficulties and that the commission has no easy task to perform if it should attempt to satisfy everybody, but one instinctively feels that it has not succeeded as yet in going as far in this direction as it might.

There is some talk just now of a new commission being set up consisting of only one paid member, the chairman, and an unsalaried advisory board. Whether such a change would result in a greater measure of satisfaction would depend largely on the personnel. The membership, if such a board is created, should certainly include one or more who are conversant with the western situation and it is essential that at least one or more of the members know something about showmanship as well as the technical side of radio.

Device Gives Seven Hours Reading To Sightless Persons

By means of the invention of a blinded World War veteran, a novel may tell its story to sightless persons, with scarcely an interruption, at one narration. The new device, called the "Libraphone", was perfected by T. O. Leefe, of Birmingham, England. The recording is on sound picture principles. By a system of multi-track recording 20 sound tracks may be run to and fro along a 500-foot length of standard sized film, making 10,000 feet of recording possible in 500 feet. Projected at the customary rate of 22 feet a minute, it will insure the listeners of a reading of just over seven hours.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A new bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Explorer Proves Neolithic Man Fished In Sahara Desert

Fishing in the Sahara was once a favourite pastime of man. This discovery was made by Henri Lhote, a Frenchman, who unearthed the first skeletons of neolithic man found in Africa. These men lived 10,000 years ago, he said, when swift streams, now dried up, once ran through a fertile Sahara plain. The young explorer, who passed two years digging in prehistoric dumpheaps in the southeastern part of the desert, analysed the bone structure of the old-time fisher, who belonged to the Negro race. Vertebrae of fresh water fish as well as harpoon heads made from bone, showed a dried-up river bed was nearby. This surmise was later proved correct.

Ship Without Rivets

River Barge Of Russian Shipping Line Electrically Welded

An oil-tanker river barge that has been added to the Lower Volga Shipping Line is said to be a unique example of shipbuilding. No rivets whatsoever were used in its construction, the sections of the hull being welded electrically. The combined length of all the welded joints totalled 40 miles. The vessel has a length of 450 feet, a beam of 62 feet, a middle height of 11 feet, and a carrying capacity of 6,000 tons. By employing the welding method, a considerable economy in metal was effected. The weight of the hull is 411 tons, 75 tons less than that of a rivetted barge of the same tonnage.

Manufactured Feeds For Live Stock

According to a recent survey, ready mixed feeds for live stock and poultry to the extent of 198,055 tons with a value at the manufacturing point of $7,725,177 were purchased by Canadian farmers in 1934. Poultry feeds led all others in volume by a large margin and accounted for about 70 per cent. of the total. Cattle feeds, principally by dairy cattle, came next, with 27,130 tons, followed by swine feeds with 16,252 tons and horse feeds with 4,228 tons. Sales of only 14 tons of sheep feeds were reported.

Would Construct Highway In Northern Alberta To Develop McMurray Sands

Negotiations have started toward construction of a highway between McMurray and Fort Fitzgerald in northern Alberta which would aid in development of the McMurray tar sands, Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, announced at Calgary.

Mr. Fallow, speaking at the annual meeting of the Calgary branch of the Alberta Motor Association, said a syndicate interested in development of the tar sands would build the road in return for an exclusive franchise for freight and syndicate transportation for hire.

McMurray is about 230 miles northeast of Edmonton and connected to that city by a railway. Fort Fitzgerald is about 210 miles north of McMurray. In northeastern Alberta a highway extends only to Athabasca, about 155 miles southeast of McMurray.

The highway which would also aid in opening up of salt fields in the area, Mr. Fallow continued, would be open to the public for pleasure and business traffic other than transportation for hire. He valued the tar sands at $90,000,000,000 and said a product of the salt fields could be used for hard surfacing all Alberta highways in the future.

"In the very near future it is the intention of the government to hard-surface arterial highways in this province," Mr. Fallow declared. He mentioned particularly the trans-Canada from east to west across Alberta and the highway from the international border to the north of the province.

Mr. Fallow told the Calgary branch he was not in favor of helping to "keep the railways in the red" by criss-crossing main highways over the province alongside railway lines, but he felt it should be definitely determined what constituted Alberta's arterial highways and these should be constructed and maintained.

"I feel we should pay a little more attention to the feeders to the main arterial highways so that the country people can at least reach a gravelled highway and go to the city on a wet day," he said.

Potato Is Living Organism

Sudden Rise And Fall In Storage Temperature Is Harmful

In the storage of potatoes it has always to be remembered that the potato is a living organism and that there are two periods when respiration may become of practical importance. One of these is immediately after digging, and the other a period of several days following a sudden rise in storage temperature. To prevent sweating, special attention should be given to the ventilation of potatoes handled in bulk immediately after digging, and also after sudden rises in temperature following a period of steady cool storage. The lower the storage temperature, the higher will be the initial rate of respiration at a sudden higher temperature. Sudden rises and falls in storage temperatures are to be avoided always. The early fall is the time to provide all possible air circulation by keeping ventilators and doors open until there is danger of freezing. On warm days doors should be closed and opened only at night when the air is cooler. The amount of ventilation required is that which will keep the potatoes dry. From early December onwards all ventilators and doors should be closed and protected and prevent the potatoes from being frozen.

Trade With Russia

May Be Part Of Government's Policy Of Trade Expansion

Resumption of trade with Russia as part of the government's policy of world-wide trade expansion was reported in official circles as probable.

"I think we should trade with every country," Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, said.

The former Bennett government, in February, 1931, placed an embargo against Russian wood-pulp, lumber, timber of all kinds, asbestos and dressed furs.

Long-Range Weather Forecasts

Noted Astronomer Says Tree Ring Method Can Be Used

The world's most discussed subject—the weather—is about to furnish man with a scientific discovery which would revolutionize agriculture and business.

So believes Dr. A. E. Douglas, famous originator of the tree ring method of dating prehistoric ruins, who announced at Tucson, Arizona, that those same tree rings were revealing climatic repetitions which eventually would make possible long range weather forecasts, thus saving farmers and merchants untold billions of dollars.

The noted astronomer, who directs Steward observatory at the University of Arizona, pointed out as an example of the tendency of climate to repeat itself over many centuries, work that he and his assistants have completed in the Prescott, Arizona, area.

"Our research in the Prescott region tends to prove that the weather is not quite as fickle as man has always thought and that it does repeat itself to a certain extent," he said. "Rainfall records at Prescott go back almost continuously to 1867. The tree records in the pine forests about Prescott give 500 years of weather records and archaeological specimens of timbers from the nearby ruins extend the record back for another 1,500 years.

"These tree records of 2,000 years closely resemble the records of rainfall since 1867. This resemblance is very close, almost 85 per cent. We find distinct changes which have continued on a cycle of about 20 years in length.

"The trouble with weather study in the past has been that we have been applying old astronomical methods, wanting to catalogue climate just as we would the seasons of the year or the movements of the heavenly bodies.

"Rainfall from year to year is erratic. In our new method of studying climatic changes, we are taking them as they are and seeking to find a new method of expressing those changes.

"In carrying out this method we are finding repetitions of which use can be made. We believe that we will soon be able to issue statements which will be of great value to people dependent on agriculture."

Dr. Douglas began his tree ring work 35 years ago and has the only class of its kind in the world at the University of Arizona.

Theory About Tuberculosis

N.S.W. Health Department Thinks Disease Contracted In Childhood

After some years research, the health department of New South Wales has reached the conclusion that tuberculosis is contracted in childhood with a dormant period for the disease. Sometimes it develops rapidly, but, in many cases, the disease remains dormant until a dangerous period is reached, usually between the ages of 15 and 25.

The conclusion is expected to throw much light on the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

At the university in Sydney special attention is being given in cancer research to the possibility of finding a chemical substance, which, if injected into a tumor, would make it more amenable to the action of X-rays.

"Many investigators believe," said Dr. Moppett (medical biologist of the research committee), "that when radiation cures cancer, it is due to co-operation with the body defences."

Control Of Moths

Damage By Moths Can Be Heavy In Winter

Under the impression that moths commit their depredations in the spring and summer months only, many people display little care in putting away their summer clothes for the winter. As matter of fact, moths may be found in heated modern buildings all the year round. Prevention is better than cure; therefore it is necessary to use the same care in packing up summer clothing in the fall as is bestowed on winter clothes in the spring. Moths themselves do no harm, except that they lay eggs, and when the eggs hatch into larvae, or caterpillars, feeding, otherwise damage, commences at once. As the young larvae are very sensitive to light, they seek out protected situations in the folds of furs or woollen garments, or in the interior of upholstered furniture. Summer garments before being laid by for the winter should be thoroughly brushed, beaten, and shaken, preferably in strong sunlight. If there are no airtight trunks or chests handy, the clothing should be placed in cotton or paper bags or in cardboard boxes sealed with strips of paper. As an alternative, the clothing should be wrapped in two thicknesses of strong wrapping paper, taking care that the edges are turned so that the moths cannot gain entrance. The control of moths which infest clothes is fully discussed in a circular prepared by the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Growing Japanese Nuts

Production Is New Venture Of Queenston, Ontario, Farmer

That the climate in Niagara Peninsula is well suited to the growing of Japanese nuts has been demonstrated at the Larkin farm, Queenston. On this farm may be found 25 Japanese nut trees, now in their second year of bearing. James A. Calvert, manager of the farm, stated a few days ago that he imported the young trees from Japan about ten years ago, and planted them as a border between the garden and orchard. They are not being grown commercially. The trees are now about 12 to 14 feet high and have a spread of some 16 to 17 feet. The nuts, of the Pecan type, grow in bunches. There are many grey squirrels in the Queenston district, and they get most of the crop.

Unique Grafting Experiments Have Resulted In Amazing Success

The one-tree "orchard" of F. A. Good, Fredericton, has borne 35 varieties of apples and 99 other varieties of blossoms this year, compared with 50 varieties of apples and about the same number of other blossoms during the previous season. Unique grafting experiments have resulted in the single tree producing almost every variety of apple native to New Brunswick.

Nine years ago the present "orchard" was an ordinary tree bearing its one variety every season on Good's farm seven miles from Fredericton on the trans-Canada highway. The farm has many other fruit trees but the famous apple tree stands in an isolated spot where its fast-growing adopted branches have plenty of space to expand.

"It isn't anything wonderful," Good told a visitor as he picked a Bishop Pippin and a McIntosh from what appeared to be the same branch. "When I first started grafting other varieties to this tree I only intended to graft about 20 or 30, but then as these flourished I conceived the idea of trying to grow on one tree all the varieties of apples found in New Brunswick. Now I think I have them all here except two or three."

Antelopes Are Numerous On Ranchlands Of Alberta Foothills

Pronged Horned antelopes—protected against hunters since 1914-15—darted across ranch lands of the Alberta foothills in such numbers they threatened the food supply of cattle and sheep.

Two years ago the antelopes encroached on the ranchlands and ranchers were forced to drive them off. This year they are coming out of their usual haunts in still greater numbers.

An open season was declared on antelope but few hunters have taken advantage of it by paying the $5 license fee.

Flesh of the animals makes good eating which accounted for the protective measures taken. Indians were killing them wholesale before game officials stepped in.

The curved horn of Rocky Mountain sheep grow until they sometimes interfere with seeing, whereupon an old sheep will break off the annoying horn against a rock.

Reports received by Honourable T. A. Crerar, Minister of Interior, indicate the gratifying progress which has been made in the work of establishing Canada's reindeer herd of over three thousand animals on the 6,600 square mile preserve set aside for it east of the delta of the Mackenzie river. The condition of the herd and the prospects for its future development as a source of supply of food and clothing for the natives of Canada's Far North is considered highly satisfactory. The first fawning at the Government station took place early in the spring shortly after the animals had been delivered to representatives of the Department of the Interior, and as a result 811 fawns were added to the herd. The total at the station as shown by the August round-up is well over 3,000 animals. The movement of the animals to the winter range was begun about the middle of September and it was expected to be completed early in November.

The delivery of the herd by the vendors took place in March and the animals, after being inspected, marked, and counted were turned over to the herders on the summer range which extends along the Arctic coast east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river. Here the fawning took place and both the young and mature animals progressed rapidly on the splendid forage available on the preserve. With the approach of winter the reindeer were herded inland by easy stages to the present location on the winter range.

When the herd of 2,370 animals was delivered to the Government station, the count showed that there were 1,498 females of all ages; 611 bulls, yearlings, and male fawns, and 261 steers. This showed a female percentage of over 63 per cent, which was considered highly satisfactory after the long drive of over four years from western Alaska. With the herd established on its new grazing range, departmental officers in charge considered that for the better development of the herd the number of breeding males should be reduced. As a result the surplus animals now number about 580 steers of all ages. A certain number of the mature animals, that is those three years of age and over, will be slaughtered from time to time to meet immediate requirements in the North. In accordance with this policy a number are being slaughtered this autumn to provide meat and skins for the care of native children in the Anglican residential school at Shingle Point and the Roman Catholic residential school at Aklavik and for the native inmates of the two mission hospitals at the latter point.

In the opinion of officers of the Department of the Interior the range comprised within the reserve is the best along the whole northern rim of the continent. Mosses and lichens cover the great expanse of the reserve and the northern part or summer range provides forage in abundance for the herd from June until September. The winter range, which extends southward along the easternmost branch of the Mackenzie river and borders the northern fringe of the timber-line is also well covered with the favoured plant food of the reindeer. Both ranges are well watered and comparatively free from predatory animals.

The work of training apprentices with the object of eventually establishing small herds among the natives has already begun and two youths, one an Eskimo and the other a white boy, have been engaged. These boys will serve under the six herders—three Lapps and three Eskimos—now on the staff of the station. The practice of training natives as herders and the distributing of numbers of reindeer to these apprentices as payment for their services has proved successful in the development of the reindeer industry in Alaska and whether this system will be given a trial at the Canadian station is now under consideration by the Minister of the Interior.

All spiders are short-sighted.

Restaurant Service On C.P.R. Lines At Nominal Prices

The institution of a restaurant lunch service at nominal prices for passengers in day coaches and tourist cars on the company's fast transcontinental trains "The Dominion" between Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver has been announced by Passenger Traffic Department.

The new service constitutes a distinct departure and supplements the work of an efficient organization built up through years of catering to the needs of the travelling public. In future passengers in day coaches and tourist cars will, through the Train News Agent, be able to secure appetizing quick lunch foods from the dining car. These lunches will include meat pies, sausage rolls, sandwiches, bread and butter, pies and beverages.

The Canadian Pacific Railway meal service now includes, the diner which has long been the standard for efficiency in catering, the self-service kitchenettes with which tourist sleepers are equipped, and the widely known and popular station lunch counters and restaurants at all principal points in Canada, and the latest quick lunch service now announced.

Firm In Moravia Has Great Idea To Save Time

Heads of a concern in Zlin, Moravia, and their secretaries are to have their "office" in an elevator. Their office will be nearly 20 feet square, and the touch of a button will be enough to send it to whichever floor of the tall building it may be needed. There the doors will be opened, and the elevator will remain until all the required business has been transacted. Then the staff will resume their "travels." The amount of time saved by taking the fully-equipped office to where it is wanted, instead of having to take everything to each office, is estimated to be great.

Aged Railway Worker Has Right Idea About Relief

An American railroad worker named Horan who is 98 years of age and still working, objected to his son, 66, applying for an old age pension and declared that no boy of his is going on the country. He has offered to contribute to the support of the son.

Such rugged individuality is tremendously refreshing in these days when so many are looking to governments and philanthropic organizations for help. Nothing will bring Canada back to a position of real prosperity except the realization on the part of all the people that the old virtues of frugality and thrift are not outworn but are as admirable and necessary to-day as they ever were. If everyone took the matter as seriously as Father Horan, who has worked as a railway boiler washer for 82 years, the unemployment relief lists of the country would be unbelievably reduced.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

New Invention Will Enable Pilots To Find Way In The Dark

British government experts are working on a "magic bottle" which will enable aviators to see where they are even when they are flying in dense fog or complete darkness. It was learned in London.

A radio direction finder in an airplane will pick up two broadcasting stations and by orientation determine a plane's position. In front of the pilot will be the "magic bottle"—a cathode ray tube such as is used in television. Over the tube the pilot will fit a transparent map of the district over which he is flying. Through the map will show a pinpoint of light on a fluorescent screen on the base of the tube. The light will be controlled by the direction finder. As the plane flies the light will follow its course over the map and the pilot will know where his plane is.

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

EDMONTON—(Press Gallery)—
The past week was one of hectic interest and witnessed one or two of the most significant happenings during the present session of the legislature in Alberta.

In the first place the long expected Social Credit Enabling Bill was introduced in the house by Premier William Aberhart. It was not the controversial instrument it had been expected to be, being in its general principle simply the authority for making a complete study of social credit; to employ experts to advise on the system and the instituting of it, and it contains no powers which are not at present in possession of the government through the medium of the public accounts and agricultural committees. It will be remembered that the U.F.A. government during the last session invited Major Douglas to come to Alberta and act as special reconstruction adviser with a view to finding a suitable plan of social credit for the province. The new bill only gives the legislature, or government, power to do the same thing.

Discussion on the principle of the bill will take place when it comes up for second reading and on its details during its passage through the committee. Opposition members are likely to point out that in their opinion the measure is only a gesture to the government's supporters.

Of course, the real intent and powers of the social credit bill will not be fully known until the government has had a chance to explain its views on these features, and it is not to be supposed Premier Aberhart and his advisers have taken any mere empty gesture as a step in the direction of implementing the government's main aim and promise. It will be wisdom to await the full revelation of the cabinet's plans before expressing any judgment as final.

Both legislature and city were thrown into ferment Thursday when an Edmonton newspaper published an exclusive story from London, giving details of Major Douglas' ultimatum to Premier Aberhart and his cabinet as to the conditions on which he would consent to continue his work as reconstruction adviser to the government. These conditions were:

1. Cancellation of new taxation announced in last Monday's budget.
2. Substitution of an interim budget on last year's basis.
3. Rejection of dominion-provincial loan council plan.

A caucus of Social Credit members was called for Thursday night to consider a reply to Major Douglas, but before it could meet and before Premier Aberhart had an opportunity of laying the Douglas terms before his supporters in the legislature, the London economist announced his terms in London—a breach of courtesy on the part of any expert engaged by a government—that must put him in a rather bad light.

There is a strong tide of sympathy setting in for Premier Aberhart because of Douglas' inconsiderate attitude and actions during the negotiations. To outsiders it looks like several things not creditable to the Major. Either he is afraid of putting his theories to the test in Alberta, for reasons that do not seem clear, or else he is jealous of the fact that another than himself has got the world's attention in connection with those theories.

One thing may be taken as certain, if social credit is practicable, Premier Aberhart is fully as capable of putting it into operation in Alberta as Major Douglas himself is. And failing all alternatives the Premier will have no hesitation in doing so, according to his own declaration during the week.

Another thing obvious in connection with the Douglas-Aberhart episode is that the Premier has won more confidence with the business world by his determination to put the province on its feet financially before attempting to put his social credit plan into operation, than the Major would have done by riding roughshod through all considerations of soundness and stability to place his theory in operation.

The Social Credit caucus decided Friday night to make one more effort to have Major Douglas come to Alberta for the purpose of advising the government on the institution of social credit. A cable was sent to the London engineer, saying, "Cannot discuss details by cable. Await your reply regarding arrival March 30."

Premier Aberhart in enlarging on this situation said Saturday, "Until we have further explanation of Major Douglas' suggestions we cannot give them satisfactory consideration. We think the only way Major Douglas can be of help to us is to come here. His cable would make it appear that he is not informed fully on the situation in Alberta."

And that is where the matter stands at the moment of writing.

Everything else in the legislature has been overshadowed by the Douglas incident and that will hold the centre of the stage until finally ended. To outside observers it seems unreasonable to suppose that a responsible government would change its policy and scrap its introduced legislation merely at the dictates of an outside employee. To say the least about it, Major Douglas' ultimatum is in very bad taste.

There now seems to be no likelihood that the session will end before March 25th at earliest. Premier Aberhart himself suggested that date as the likeliest one. There are still some important matters to come before the members, although considerable legislation has been dealt with. The budget debate continues Monday and may last even longer, and then there are the Social Credit Bill, Recall Bill and Education Bill, all controversial measures to be put through the various stages required before being passed finally.

The session has certainly been the most interesting and outstanding one for years so far, and it promises to continue so to the end.

New Census Of Stars

Discloses Number, Size Of Sun, Not Previously Identified

An astronomical star census, by a new method reported to the National Academy of Sciences at Charlottesville, Va., increases the theoretical mathematical chances of life like that on earth existing elsewhere in the universe.

This report does not discuss the possibilities of life, but shows a larger number of stars the size of our sun than previously identified. Its new star census fits directly into the statistics by which astronomers have been calculating the chances that there might be other suns with planet families and evolutions just like ours.

Such an "accident" was once considered remote. Lately the almost incredible multiplication in the estimated numbers of stars has caused astronomers to consider the "accident" of exact similarity more possible, and the census shows the existence of an increased number of specific places where there might be duplication.

The star count was made on "dwarf" and "giant" stars by P. Van de Kamp and A. N. Vyssotsky of the Leander McCormick observatory, University of Virginia.

Amenities Of The Road

Lack Of Courtesy Of The Man
Behind The Wheel

The question of the courtesy and temperament of motor drivers has come to the fore of late through the suggestion of a widely-read magazine that the automobile is the ruin of tempers.

Consideration of this phase of the subject leaves the impression that there is something in the mere act of driving a car which causes one to forget all, or nearly all, the common requirements of courtesy.

Recently we had cause to comment on the fact that few Canadian drivers will dim their headlights for an approaching car, even when requested to do so by repeated action of the other driver in dimming the lights. It is truly amazing how our dispositions suffer when we are behind the wheel of a motor car. We feel aggrieved at the driver who tries to pass us, and speed away in a cloud of dust. We try to cut in ahead of the other fellow, we demand our half of the road and probably a little more, and we probably consider the other driver always in the wrong.

We suggest that motorists give honest consideration to this subject, make up a list of just how you feel towards the other driver on various occasions; you will likely be greatly surprised to learn that you lack courtesy when behind the wheel of your car.

The restoration of courtesy in driving, friendly, willing courtesy, could well be the first step in a Canadian-wide safety campaign. Let us think courtesy and follow through with action.—St. Catharines Standard.

Tomb Among Buddhists

U.S. Scientist Will Be Buried In Chinese Monastery

Alan Priest, curator of the Oriental department of the Metropolitan museum has a newly completed tomb waiting for him in the Buddhist monastery of Chief Tai Ssu, or the Monastery of the Ordaining Terrace.

The religious structure, 25 miles from Peiping, dates back to the third century A.D.

In the communal graveyard, dating back to the Ming dynasty, Mr. Priest has his tomb. It is the typical Buddhist form of shaped, gray bricks, rising ten feet and looking not unlike a creme de menthe bottle. It is overshadowed by a great pagoda and other shrines 400 years old. Giant evergreen trees equally ancient give shade.

At present the plaque on the tomb merely carries the date of erection in Chinese characters, but it might some day include the character "Pu," Mr. Priest's name in Chinese.

In order to receive this special favor of resting in death among the monks, the American made friends with the chief abbot of Chief Tai Ssu, and in a minor way is considered one of his followers. Mr. Priest, after graduation from Harvard, participated in an archaeological expedition to China, speaks and reads Chinese, and is one of America's leading sinologists. He put the finishing touches to a book manuscript on Chinese subjects while on leave in Peiping.

Grim Curio For Sale

Cabinet Owned by Notorious Poisoner
Has Sinister History

A large, highly-ornamented cabinet, with a sinister history, was on view in London at Selfridge's recently.

It was given to Lucrezia Borgia, the notorious "mass" poisoner of the Renaissance period, by her brother, Caesar. It contains dozens of secret drawers in which Lucrezia is reputed to have kept liquors and wines. The most interesting feature, however, is the key, in the handle of which is hidden a needle which remained embedded in a deadly poison.

Lucrezia's enemies often attempted to open the cabinet, but their ignorance of the existence of the needle meant a swift death in terrible agony.

The cabinet was later given by Cardinal de Medici to Czar Alexander I., and remained in the possession of the House of Romanoff until 1917. It was often admired by Rasputin.

It is now owned by Baron von Landauer, and is for sale at £3,000.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —

They turned to see a short man in a fur-collared overcoat pausing in the doorway. At recognition that she was a girl he quickly doffed his derby hat. The man was apple-faced with a long pointed nose and a sharp chin. He bowed gravely and came forward.

"You're Mr. Fleming, I guess? My name's G. I. V. Berrens. Traveling representative of the Western Improvement Company of Denver. I—er, heard about a project Mr. Fleming is interested in, and decided to come out to speak to him. I must have been on the way when this—er, regrettable incident occurred." He stood beside the recumbent rancher. "Mighty sorry, mighty sorry," he stated in a low, peculiarly husky voice. "Mighty sorry indeed."

Link could not recall having seen the man before. Berrens drew up a stool and offered it to Helen. Then tossing his derby on the stand where the oil lamp was, he thrust back the long overcoat, apparently joining his fat little hands behind him. Rocking back and forth, heel-and-toe, he smiled again and shook his head.

"Er—I am not selling anything but ideas, possibly one might say ideas, Mr. Fleming. So don't worry about that. Fact is, in your—ah, unfortunate condition of the moment you may, perchance be particularly amenable to my proposition."

Link's glance showed plain longing for the fellow to be gone. It had no visible effect on Mr. Berrens, however. Nodding and smiling from one to the other of them, and back again, he continued what sounded like a prepared speech.

"You are, I believe, interested in irrigation?"

"I reckon so."

"Right! At the Trailend Hotel in Rawhide I chanced to fall into conversation with one or two townspeople. Mr. Otto Pieper, president of the bank, for one. Ah—I gather that you and this young lady have discussed some irrigation project in common—together—which, one might say, is not thought highly of by other ranchers?"

"That's true, Mr. Berrens."

The fussy little man exhibited a row of gold teeth. "Sir, the company I represent, the Western Improvement Company, is a powerful, well-financed concern. We are, as a matter of fact, interested in securing a small, interesting place where we can experiment. I am not trying to sell you anything, sir, except possibly an idea."

"Don't think I can afford even an idea now, Mr. Berrens. My ranch house—"

"Exactly!" Mr. Berrens beamed. His gold teeth gleamed. "This carbonizing of your ranch house is, I assume, a severe blow to a man of your apparent financial standing. Nothing saved, eh? Mr. Fleming, you are a sick man, sir. Tch! That such a thing should happen in this day and age!"

"A gentleman named Soak Torney was slain, I am told. Also, someone at the same time tried to kill you. This—er, fire seems to be of incendiary origin, do you think? At least, some miscreant seems to have placed dynamite in your stove."

"What I am getting at," he ended with dramatic suddenness and appropriate gestures, "is this: my company will purchase your ranch, sir. We don't want it for the cattle. We want it because Silver Creek provides an interesting opportunity to try irrigation and to study the results."

"But we intend—" Helen began. "With men trying to kill you at every turn? Mr. Fleming, why not accept a fair price and leave the country?"

The bunkhouse became silent save for the muffled talk outside and the impatient stamp of horses' hoofs. Link scowled as he looked from Berrens to the girl, then into space. Discouragement welled in him at realization that all Boone County wanted to see the irrigation scheme fail—actually, hoped it would fail. Someone wanted it to the extent of attempting to kill him. The loss of the plans, the destruction of his ranch house—all this was warning enough. Could a man succeed in the face of such odds?

Thought of surrender was not a pleasing one. Link Fleming could not recall when he had surrendered before.

Nevertheless there was a difference between being courageous and foolhardy. He could sell out and go elsewhere, easily enough.

He gazed thoughtfully at Helen Hamilton, seated nearby, her graceful profile turned his way. Perhaps he would do her a service to scotch this scheme here and now. To persist, plainly, meant trouble. His pulse speeded and new warmth went through him. He wanted to avoid making trouble for her, trouble of any kind.

"How much for the Star Loop, Mr. Berrens?" became that it might be worth while you have. I've been informed as to your land, however. I'll say five thousand for the land and the buildings, and your beef at the market price. That's just a rough idea, but we can work it out on a satisfactory basis, I'm sure."

"How about seventeen hundred acres of land that'll grow alfalfa when it's watered?"

"Ha! As it isn't watered now, it isn't worth much. Fifty cents an acre, Mr. Fleming, and that's a very generous offer. Very generous, indeed!"

He thought a moment. With his steers and equipment the price would run around ten thousand dollars. It was less than the place was worth, but that amount in cash meant settling all this. And the more he pondered, the more deeply convinced he

"Well, I'm not sure what stock to sell. Helen would be spared heightening the friction between herself and Buzz, in prison—between herself and Kilgo, who must have some grounds for expecting to win the girl."

Suddenly his mind was made up. "Mr. Berrens, I'll take—"

"Wait!" The girl rose swiftly. Her eyes were bright and her face pale. "You shan't do it!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Why, Link, what makes you talk so?"

"But we can't get in any work now till Spring. That means the cost goes up. And Helen, I'd like to get you out of this. Maybe we'll both be better off."

"Then you don't think we could build a dam?"

Has Been Designed For Treatment Of Mouth Cancer

Designed by two London, Ontario, doctors, a radium applicator of a new type for treatment of oral cancer has been announced.

Details of the appliance are carried in the current edition of the Canadian Dental Association Journal.

In the treatment of cancer of the mouth, it is announced, doctors and radiologists have been faced with the possibility of killing bone structure and healthy tissues because of the strength of the radium.

Melvin Notes.

The Minstrel Show at the Melvin School on Friday night was a great success. It was put on entirely by the local Melvin school children, who played their parts remarkably well. Much credit is due to their teacher, Miss Hazel Ray, for their training. The children have been requested to repeat their show at an early date. And if they put it on again be sure to come out and see our little Melvin artistes perform. A total of $21.50 was cleared for the Junior Red Cross.

There has been a general moving around of farmers in the district: Mr. Wm. White moved to his own place; Ralph Honey to the place vacated by Mr. White; John Kreuger to the Meaker place that Ralph left; Mr. Shannon to the Walter Simons place where John Kreuger lived. Mr. Befus has moved to the Honey place, where Mr. Shannon lived. We take this opportunity of welcoming the newcomers.

Westcott Ladies Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. August Krebs next Wednesday afternoon, March 18. Everybody welcome.

A number of members of this community are laid up with measles and flu. We trust they will soon be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stubbs and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Youngs.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Carlson were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dupont.

Misses Maudie Johnston and Joyce Jackson, of Didsbury High School, are at their homes this week.

Miss Bertha Good, of Garfield, was a Tuesday visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. August Krebs were in the southern city the first of the week.

RUGBY NOTES

With 17 members in attendance Rugby W I held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Wahl. After a short business session an interesting paper on "Trees & Shrubs for the Home Grounds," was given by Mrs. Roy McNaughton, followed by a general discussion. Vocal solos were rendered by Mesdames Hogg, McFarlane and Shannon. The three-minute talk on the League's work was taken by Mrs. H. Hoegood. Just before the close of the afternoon a gift was presented to Mrs. Shannon who is leaving the district. A member of the Institute for a good many years, she will be missed from the ranks. The meeting ended with the singing of "God Save the King," and lunch was served. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Hoegood.

Last Thursday evening a meeting was held in Rugby School for the purpose of hearing the report of the trustees' convention and also to discuss the resolutions to be sent to the minister of education from that convention. Mrs. Parker gave a most interesting report of the proceedings and the meeting fully endorsed the three resolutions sent. Mr. Alec Hogg spoke briefly on municipal matters. There were quite a number of people present, but still lots of empty seats. We wonder where the rest of the ratepayers were?

Elkton Notes.

A large crowd of neighbors and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett on Friday evening to wish them godspeed and present them with a gift, as they are leaving to make their home in the States. Cards, dancing and songs provided a variety of entertainment, and lunch was served.

The young people of the community are extremely busy rehearsing the play they are to put on in aid of the Prophetic Bible Institute Radio Sunday School, Friday, March 20. It is hoped to take it around the country.
